

Spencer M Collins IV

BIO

Two-time NAACP Theater Award Nominee and recent receipt of Hollywood African Prestigious Award for his new film Velvet Jesus, starring Jensen Atwood of Noah's Arc and Ernest Harden Jr of The Jefferson's.

Spencer M Collins IV is a Community Activist and so much more.

The oldest of five is a Native of Boston and a graduate of Madison Park High School. Where he also attended the Hubert H Humphrey Vocational School where his first interest in a career of entertainment began.

A man of many talents Spencer is now known for his Writing, Directing, Producing, Acting and his Philanthropy.

Often divided by his gifts that also include Set-Building and Design, Hosting and Stage-Management he has worked with most of Black Hollywood. Celebrating 14 years in LA he says he finally feels focused, and like he belongs.

Living as an openly same-gender loving HIV Positive man Spencer has had many challenges in Black-Hollywood and has overcome each and every one with style, grace and courage that he attributes to his biggest support system, his family.

Creating his own lane, he is the founder and CEO of BLACMail Productions and has done everything from running errands and sweeping the set-floors to Directing & Producing his first film, music-video and Web-Series under collaborations with William Scales that has been recognized by several different Web-Fest across the Country including the prestigious Pan African Film Festival hosted here in Los Angeles.

Spencer also hosts an Annual World AIDS Day Event in December recognizing his peers and Pioneers of the LGBTQI Community. In addition to all of this, he has been recognized for his advocacy work by the city of Los Angeles and several organizations throughout LA.

Including Minority AIDS Project where he worked for several years, In The Meantime Men's Group and the AMAAD Institute.

He has recently stepped down to refocus his energies on creating more content that will reach the masses and change the narrative of the community to which he belongs!

He is working on Production of Season Two of the Multi-Award-Winning Show "Poz-Roz " Created & Written by friend Carlton Jordan that follows the life of an African American Sister who accidentally discovers, she's Positive. Spencer says his purpose in life is to change the way African Americans are seen, specifically those who identify as SGL or in the LGBTQI Community one story at a time.
